

Dr. med. Yves Jaccard

FMH-certified rheumatologist

Languages

FR,EN,DE

Work Experience

since 1997	Medical practice, Clinique de Genolier, Genolier, Switzerland
since 1995	Attending physician in reumatology, Centre Médical de Meyrin and SWICA Centre de Santé, Geneva, Switzerland
1993-1996	Deputy duty physician, Permanence Médico-Chirurgicale SA, Geneva, Switzerland
1992-1993	Medical practice, Vevey, Switzerland

Education

1993	FMH-certified specialist in internal medicine with a sub-specialism in rheumatic diseases
1988-1989	Internal medicine, Centre Hospitalier Universitaire Vaudois, Lausanne, Switzerland
1987-1988	Internal medicine, Policlinique Médicale Universitaire, Lausanne, Switzerland
1985-1986	Internal medicine, Hôpital de Loëx, Bernex, Switzerland
1984-1985	Internal medicine, Hôpital de la Zone, Montreux, Switzerland
1983-1984	Internal medicine, Hôpital Monney, Châtel-St-Denis, Switzerland
1982-1983	General surgery, Hôpital de la Gruyère, Riaz, Switzerland
1975-1982	Faculty of medicine, Geneva, Switzerland

Memberships

- Member of the Groupe des Rhumatologues Vaudois
- Member of the Société Vaudoise de Médecine and the FMH

Handouts Presentations

Since I started at the Clinique de Genolier in 1997, I've seen a revolution in the diagnostic techniques, care and treatment that we offer our patients.

Rheumatology has made the leap to an ultra-modern medical discipline, with enormous advances made, in particular with respect to conditions such as reumatoid arthritis and spondyloarthritis, which typically lead to the patient becoming disabled.

Nowadays, rheumatology has a lot to offer to its patients. It can survey, study, explain and guide its patients as needed for their care, for example referring them to other specialisms such as orthopaedic surgery, radiology, neurology, internal medicine, immunology, oncology, angiology, cardiology, endocrinology, and so on.

Rheumatology is the discipline that brings everything together and offers treatment and monitoring together with all the other specialisms, but in particular it builds and maintains a strong relationship between the patient and their GP.

Since I started practising, I've developed expertise in caring for rheumatological conditions such as rheumatoid arthritis, spondyloarthritis, chronic pain and osteoporosis.

As a rheumatologist, I also often care for patients who have had orthopaedic surgery or have undergone traumas that require a bespoke course of physiotherapy.

Accreditation

Clinique de Genolier

Specialties

Rheumatology

Contact

Clinique de Genolier

Route du Muids 3

1272 Genolier

T +41 22 366 93 11

yjaccard@genolier.net

Download vCard